

Teotihuacan: Archaeology Under the City of the Gods

2 pm • Sat, March 24, 2018 • Bing Theater

The Art of the Ancient Americas invites you to the Opening Weekend Program for City and Cosmos: The Arts of Teotihuacan.

Archaeologists Sergio Gómez Chávez and Julie Gazzola will present first-hand accounts of the discovery of the Tlalocan tunnel offering in Teotihuacan, Mexico, and new findings about the city's early history. Tlalocan is a staggeringly rich offering found in 2003 in an ancient tunnel underneath the Feathered Serpent Pyramid. Buried inside was an astounding collection of objects notable for their complexity and quantity; City and Cosmos provides an extraordinary opportunity to see some of the recently discovered objects.

The program also includes a screening of a preliminary cut of Tlalocan, Bajo la Ciudad de los Dioses, a documentary which will be introduced by one of the filmmakers, Juan Mora Catlett. Q's & A's follow the screening. Program funded by the Arvey Foundation. Speakers include

- Julie Gazzola, Dirección de Estudios Arqueológicos, Instituto Nacional de Antropología e Historia
- Sergio Gómez Chávez, Zona de Monumentos Arqueológicos de Teotihuacán, Instituto Nacional de Antropología e Historia
- Juan Mora Catlett, Eréndira Producciones and Universidad Nacional Autónoma de México

Program in Spanish, with simultaneous interpretation (limited # of headsets available). The documentary is 30 minutes, in Spanish and no subtitles. Free and open to All.
