Southern Guild Gallery • 747 N. Western • LA 90029

Join us in a private tour of Southern Guild, a gallery with its roots in Capetown, South Africa since 2008 and its very recent expansion to a 5000 sq. feet permanent space Los Angeles just before Freize opened in late February! For its inaugural opening in Los Angeles two unique exhibitions will include Mother Tongues, which celebrates standout artists from the gallery's roster, and a solo exhibition of monumental ceramic sculpture by Zizipho Poswa. Poswa's solo exhibition will feature her most ambitious body of work to date, a series of sculptures reaching heights of over 8 feet tall, made during her recent summer-long residency at the Center for Contemporary Ceramics at California State University in Long Beach. Highlighting the socially embedded role of African art throughout history and the marriage of personal narrative with Africa's current geo-political, economic, cultural and ecological context, Mother Tongues features 25 artists such as Zanele Muholi, Andile Dyalvane, Porky Hefer, Manyaku Mashilo, Madoda Fani, Kamyar Bineshtarigh and Oluseye, amongst others. Two co-Directors of the gallery will provide a curated tour of Africa's most upcoming and notable artists to date, many who are already in the collections of major US museums that include the Met and our own LACMA. Come visit also LA's newest art district, Melrose Hill, north of Koreatown and visit its offerings including the David Swirner Gallery.
